HUMAN RIGHTS THEATER PROJECT

During the month of December 2011, we worked with the participants in the Human Rights Theater Project on sketches of their own writing. They wrote about the Apartheid, the Rights of Refugees, Gender Equality, the Right to Education, the Rights of Civilians during War, Colonization and the Freedom of Expression. The sketches were shown to a local Theater Director, Mr. Qais Awayes, where he evaluated the children's performance based on their acting and body language, and were really impressed in general. We noticed that the kids were developing their acting skills in a very short period of time, and they gave good performances with regards to the short period of rehearsal.

VISIT TO THE INDEPENDENT COMMISSION FOR THE HUMAN RIGHTS

The team of the human rights theater project has visited the independent commission for human right to make their own initiative which is present a play for the commission in order to show them the practical implementation for the children rights as the commission present the organization's work and cervices, it was a very new experience to the children that enrich their experience and their understanding to the human rights.
